Four motorcycle patrolmen let them through one intersection, but Deputy Chief A. L. Ray met them with 20 officers as they approached the main thoroughfare.

"Your leaders said you wanted to have a private, mournful march, and we agreed under those circumstances," he shouted over an electric bullhorn. Then he ordered the group, now numbering approximately 1,000, to disperse.

"We want the killer! We want the killer!" chanted the leaders. "We want equality! We want freedom!"

Demonstrators in the rear began stamping their feet and shouting "Freedom! Freedom! Freedom!" in staccato cadence.

Officers using police dogs moved in at this point, driving some of the Negroes and a group of 50 or more white men back down the street. One demonstrator after another was grabbed and hustled into waiting patrol wagons.

White and Negro merchants along "Parish Street" quickly bolted their doors.

With newsmen out of the way, the police went to work in earnest to clear the area. A television cameraman crouched in a doorway said a Negro man who did not move fast enough was struck in the face with a shotgun butt by a deputy sheriff. Another deputy cut a soundman's microphone cable.

The cameraman said a Negro woman was clubbed by a policeman. She fled to a car, but was dragged out and clubbed again.

Two men in one camera crew said the police had threatened to turn a police dog on them if they did not move out of the area quickly.

Negroes Sealed Off

By this time, most of the Negroes had been sealed off in one-block area. They began throwing bricks, bottles and other missiles at the police. Most fell short of the mark.

One group taunted the officers with cries of "Shoot! Shoot! Shoot!"

Although some of the policemen had drawn their pistols, none used them. Steel-helmeted highway patrolmen backed up the police, holding automatic rifles and shotguns at the ready.

PLEDGE BY WALLACE SOUGHT BY KENNEDY

WASHINGTON, June 18 (UPI)—President Kennedy told Gov. George C. Wallace today that the Alabama National Guard would be kept under Federal orders until the President was assured the local and state officials could maintain law and order at the University of Alabama.

In a telegram to Governor Wallace, whose opposition to integration of Negro students led to the federalizing of the guardmen, the President asked the Governor to "take the necessary steps" that would permit release of the troops from Federal service.

"The duration of their duty is largely up to you," Mr. Kennedy said.

The President said his responsibilities would require him to continue the troops on active duty in Tuscaloosa site of the university, until Mr. Wallace assured him they were no longer required.

"I am advised that Tuscaloosa has a small but excellent police force which, if backed by state law enforcement agencies, can maintain law and order in the Tuscaloosa area," the President said.

"It will be unfortunate if members of the Alabama National Guard now in Federal service are required to remain away from their homes and jobs for any extended period this summer."

Special to The New York Times

IN BOSTON IS SLATED

Special to The New York Times
BOSTON, June 18—Boston's Negro community is preparing to speak in a louder voice.

Disappointed with the results of a hearing before the Boston school committee this week, Negro leaders will seek to have parents keep 14,000 pupils out of school next Tuesday in a demonstration against what they consider de facto segregation and substandard education.

Efforts to dissuade the Negroes from the boycott appeared at the weekend end to have failed. The school committee called the plan "live responsible" and issued an appeal to parents.

Members of the Negro community also plan to stage a "stop day" on June 26. It is urging members to stay away from their jobs on that day. This move is intended to point out the seriousness of unemployment among Negroes and the meager type of jobs to which many of them are consigned. Those who feel they cannot afford to lose a day's pay will be asked to wear black armbands.

On the same day stores and other businesses controlled by Negroes will be boycotted, and picketed.

In Rhode Island Campaign

Special to The New York Times
PROVIDENCE, R.I., June 18—The local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said today it was considering the use of an economic boycott here as part of its program and racial discrimination.

If boycotts are adopted, will be the first ever tried by the N.A.A.C.P. So far it has relied on sit-in demonstrations and rallies to advance the housing legislation, which fail in the legislature.

John E. Maddox, chairman of the Rhode Island N.A.A.C.P. said the organization would consider "any and all techniques in combating discrimination." "We are not out technique to show the public large the effects discrimination has on the community as a whole, as well as the minority discriminated against," he said.

In the future, he added, the N.A.A.C.P. here probably will place increased stress on equal job opportunities for Negroes.
